

STEFAN SAGMEISTER: THE SAD STORY BEHIND HIS HAPPY NEW FILM P. 130

DESIGN BUREAU

GIRL POWER

THE NEW PENTAGRAM PARTNERS TAKE US BEHIND THE SCENES

A NEW TAKE ON NEW URBANISM

THE ARCHITECTURE MOVEMENT REVIVED AND REVAMPED

SKI RESORTS

SIX MODERN MOUNTAIN SKI RESORTS TO VISIT THIS WINTER

DESIGN GIFT GUIDE

50 PERFECT PRESENTS FOR EVERYONE ON YOUR LIST, P. 116

SPECIAL!

DARK INTERIOR INSPIRATION

Hide out from Doomsday in these cavernous (and somewhat creepy) spaces

PLUS

7 DELISH CHOCOLATE PACKAGING DESIGNS (THE CANDY'S NOT BAD, EITHER)

GREAT GATSBY GOES MOD: GIVE YOUR PAD A DOSE OF ROARING '20S STYLE

NOV/DEC 2012
$9 USA/CAN

IN THE DETAILS

A neutral-colored sectional by B&B Italia and coffee table by Ligne Roset complement the dark-colored wood floor, while the chocolate-and-amethyst area rug by The Rug Company and recessed window blinds finish off that earthy feel

Beaupère used the artwork as her main inspiration to create an inviting and relaxing living room

NEW YORK LIVING

This Gramercy Park pied-a-terre shines thanks to thoughtfully-selected artwork and a feminine design touch

PROJECT: MT RESIDENCE
LOCATION: NEW YORK, NY
INTERIOR DESIGNER:
CAROLINE BEAUPÈRE OF
CAROLINE BEAUPÈRE DESIGN

New York-based interior designer Caroline Beaupère found design inspiration for the MT Residence from other creative women. "Each room was designed with artwork in mind," says Beaupère. "The atmosphere and ambience for each room not only reflects the artwork, but also extends it. I love that each room has its own personality, but has very a strong feminine-glam feel."

Although the masculine, dark-colored wood floors initially presented a challenge in the 2,500-square-foot apartment, Beaupère saw it as a positive challenge. Rather than replace the flooring, she integrated it as a background for the contemporary furniture and pops of color. "I love how we pushed and really linked it all together," she says.—LESLEY STANLEY

In the MT residence, Beaupère's design required her to balance grand period pieces with sleek modern designs, and she turned to Italian furniture and decor specialist Atelier to get the contemporary half of the look just right. "We carefully pick the best designs from our partnering manufacturers, giving our designers a curated selection of products to choose from, and helping them to create something exceptional," says Gretchen Anderson, a senior associate at Atelier. Atelier sources its high-end items from only the finest manufacturers, ensuring the best of the best. "Everything from the carpeting to the lighting, door handles, pillows, and accessories should all be cohesive within the space." In the most recent project with Beaupère, Atelier finished off the space with a clean, high-gloss lacquer wall system that pulls double duty by concealing unsightly electronics and adding extra luster for an elegant aesthetic.